Amherst Radiology is a division of Diagnostic X-Ray Service Inc., established in 1979. We are in the service of providing state-of-the-art diagnostic imaging to Western New York and Pennsylvania. We offer an array of services that are available for on-site examination at our conveniently located Amherst office, or mobile service where we can bring our equipment to your location. Our industry professionals will accommodate any and all of your needs regardless of location!

Services we provide can give valuable information about your health and play an important role in helping your doctor make an accurate diagnosis.

Our Complete Diagnostic Services Available

- ❖ X-ray Procedures - X-Rays are used to visualize bones inside your body.
- ❖ Ultrasound – Ultrasound produces sound waves that are beamed into the body and are recorded to "visualize" organs and structures beneath the skin.
- ❖ Nuclear Medicine  - Nuclear medicine procedures use pharmaceuticals that have been labeled with a radionuclide that primarily show the physiological function of a system in the body.
- ❖ Mammography  - the process of using a form of x-ray to examine the human breast. The goal of mammography is the early detection of breast cancer.
- ❖ Bone Densitometry  - measures the strength of your bones and helps in diagnosing any loss in bone mass.
- ❖ Cardiovascular Studies
 - Echocardiogram – Is an ultrasound of the heart.
 - Carotid Doppler – Is an ultrasound of both right and left carotid arteries in the neck.
 - Venous Doppler – Is an ultrasound of right and left lower legs to check for Deep Vein Thrombus.
 - Bilateral Arterial Doppler - Is an ultrasound to check for Peripheral Vascular Disease.
 - Electrocardiogram – Is an EKG that looks at the heart rhythm.
 - Holter Monitoring – Is a 24 or 48 hour EKG of the heart.
